CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Washington by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of more than 25,000 inhabitants; Table III for cities of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of cities of more than 50,000.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 15) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Washington, 585,386, or 51.3 per cent, are native whites of native parentage; 282,528, or 24.7 per cent, are native whites of foreign or mixed parentage; and 241,197, or 21.1 per cent, are foreign-born whites. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 51.2, 24.9, and 19.7, respectively. The Japanese and Chinese constitute 1.3 per cent of the population; Indians, 1 per cent; negroes, 0.5 per cent. In 26 of the 38 counties the proportion of foreign-born whites ranges from 10 to 25 per cent, and in 8 counties the proportion exceeds one-fourth. In 14 counties the proportion of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage exceeds one-fourth, and except in 6 counties the percentage for this class exceeds that for the foreign-born whites. (See maps on page 1009.)

Of the urban population, 48.7 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 54.2 per cent. The corresponding percentages for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 25.7 and 23.6, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 23.1 in the urban population and 18.9 in the rural; of Chinese and Japanese, 1.7 and 1, respectively; of negroes, 0.8 and 0.3. The Indian population is almost exclusively rural.

Sex (Table 2).—In the total population of the state there are 658,663 males and 483,327 females, or 136.3 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 142.2 to 100. Among native whites the ratio is 120.8 to 100 and among foreign-born whites 199.7 to 100. In the urban population there are 132.4 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 140.9.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the native population—that is, population born in the United States—29.7 per cent were born in Washington and 70.3 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 71.1 per cent were born outside the state; of the native negro, 90.8 per cent; and of the native Indian, 5.4 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Tables 5 and 12).—Of the foreign-born white population of Washington, persons born in Canada represent 16.2 per cent; Sweden, 13.3; Germany, 12.2; Norway, 11.8; England, 8; Italy, 5.4; Austria, 5.3; Russia, 4.5; Ireland, 4.2; Finland, 3.6; all other countries, 15.1. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 16.7 per cent; Canada, 16; Sweden, 10.7; Norway, 10.1; England, 8.9; Ireland, 6.8; Austria, 3.6; Russia, 3.4; Italy, 3.2; Scotland, 3.1; Denmark, 2.9.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The number of males 21 years of age and over is 441,294, representing 38.6 per cent of the population. Of such males, 45.3 per cent are native whites of native parentage, 17.1 per cent native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 33.4 per cent foreign-born whites, 2.8 per cent Chinese and Japanese, 0.7 per cent negroes, and 0.6 per cent Indians. Of the 147,224 foreign-born white males of voting age, 68,895, or 46.8 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 340,872.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 9.5 per cent are under 5 years of age, 16.8 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 19.4 per cent from 15 to 24, 35.1 per cent from 25 to 44, and 18.5 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 4.6 per cent of this class being under 15, while 81 per cent, or more than four-fifths, are 25 and over. Of the native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 39.2 per cent are 25 and over, and of the native whites of native parentage, 48.9 per cent.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 38.6 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural, 31 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 293,478, of whom 195,259, or 66.5 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 1,865 children under 6 and 4,571 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 64.7; for girls, 68.5. For children 6 to 14, the percentage attending school was 85.7. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 85.9; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 86.9; among foreign-born whites, 83.9; and among negroes, 81.3. (See Table I.) There is little difference between urban and rural communities as regards the percentage attending school.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 18,416 illiterates in the state, representing 2 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 3.1 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 0.3 among native whites, 4.8 among foreign-born whites, 4.3 among negroes, 45.8 among Indians, 19 among Chinese, and 6.8 among Japanese.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiterates is 1.3 in the urban population and 2.8 in the rural. For each class separately, also, the rural percentage exceeds the urban.

For persons 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is very low, being only 0.8. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 14).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 48.6 per cent of the males are single and 26.5 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 45.7 for males and 64.1 for females; and the percentage widowed 3.6 and 7.9, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.9 and 1.2, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due partly to the excess of males in the total population and partly to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 10.5 per cent of the females 15 to 19 are married, as compared with 0.5 per cent of the males, and 52.1 per cent of the females 20 to 24 are married, as compared with 13.7 per cent of the males. In the age group, 25 to 34, the percentage married is 78.4 for females and 44.1 for males, and for those from 35 to 44 it is 85.5 and 65.2, respectively, while in the age group, 45 and over, the difference practically disappears. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages married among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Native whites of native parentage, 48.3 for males and 64 for females; foreign-born whites, 46.8 and 72.9, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 39.9 and 55.8; negroes, 38.8 and 59.4; Indians, 57.2 and 65.2; Chinese, 42.5 and 50.7; Japanese, 25.5 and 80.5.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, for males and for females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Washington is 238,822, and the total number of families 254,692, there being 106.6 families to each 100 dwellings. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 4.8, and the average number per family, 4.5.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of West Virginia, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 1018) shows the population of West Virginia, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties and of the primary divisions in each county is alphabetical. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

Table 2 (p. 1023) shows the cities and incorporated towns and villages in West Virginia, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of West Virginia, by counties, at each of the last five censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained in the next column.

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, magisterial districts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have

HISTORICAL NOTE.—West Virginia derives its name from that of the parent state, which was called Virginia in honor of Elizabeth of England, the "Virgin Queen."

The territory now forming West Virginia was included in the grant made by the English King to the Virginia Company in 1609. It was later claimed by France by virtue of the explorations of Marquette, Joliet, La Salle, and others in the Mississippi Valley. The French claims were, however, extinguished in 1763 by the treaty of peace which concluded the French and Indian War. The Six Nations also claimed this territory by right of conquest, but in 1768 ceded their title to England by the treaty made at Fort Stanwix, N. Y.

For many years after the settlement of the eastern part of Virginia the western portion, which now constitutes West Virginia, remained unexplored. It was probably first visited by white men in 1669. In that year John Lederer, a German surgeon, in the employ of Gov. Berkeley of Virginia, made a tour of exploration westward, probably reaching the summit of the mountains which form the eastern boundary of West Virginia, and in the same year La Salle is believed to have sailed down the Ohio River, thus skirting the western boundary. Two years later Thomas Batts penetrated the state as far as the falls of the Kanawha. The date of the first settlement within the present limits of the state is uncertain, but it is known that as early as 1727 settlers from Pennsylvania had located in the northeastern part of the state at New Mecklenberg, now Shepherdstown. A few years later Scotch-Irish pioneers began to settle in western Virginia and some of them crossed the mountains into what is now West Virginia.

By the charter of Maryland granted in 1632 Virginia was deprived of the territory now constituting Maryland and nominally of a tract now in northeastern West Virginia, but notwithstanding the terms of the charter continued to retain jurisdiction over the latter region until it became a part of the state of West Virginia. The boundary dispute between Pennsylvania and Virginia was settled in 1779, when the western boundary and the western part of the southern boundary of Pennsylvania were fixed at their present location. In 1784 Virginia ceded to the United States its lands west of the Ohio River, and in 1792 the territory south of the Ohio, which up to this time had formed a part of Virginia, became the state of Kentucky. Thus the area of Virginia was reduced to the territory now comprising the states of Virginia and West Virginia.

At the outbreak of the Civil War that part of Virginia lying northwest of the Alleghenies remained loyal to the Union. A convention of delegates elected by the people of that portion of the state met at Wheeling in June, 1861, after Virginia had seceded, adopted a declaration of independence of the mother state, took measures for the establishment of a provisional government, and elected a governor. Another convention met at Wheeling in November, 1861, and framed a constitution for the state, which was ratified by popular vote in the following April. On June 20, 1863, West Virginia became a state of the Union, by act of Congress approved December 31, 1862.

In 1863 the counties of Berkeley and Jefferson were transferred from Virginia to West Virginia and in 1866 Congress recognized and approved the transfer. This left both states with substantially their present limits.

then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of West Virginia is 1,221,119. Compared with a population of 958,800 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 262,319, or 27.4 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The percentage of increase for the state during the last decade has been larger than that shown for any other decade since 1880.

West Virginia was set off from Virginia in 1862. It appeared separately in the Federal census reports for first time in 1870. That part of Virginia taken to form West Virginia had a population as follows: 1860, 376,688; 1850, 302,313; 1840, 224,537; 1830, 176,924; 1820, 136,808; 1810, 105,469; 1800, 78,592; 1790, 55,873.

The following table shows the population of West Virginia at each census from 1870 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

The above table shows that during the 40 years since 1870 the population of the state has increased nearly three times, the highest percentage of increase, 39.9, being for the decade 1870–1880, and the lowest, 23.3, for the decade 1880–1890. During the 70 years from 1790 to 1860 the population of the territory now comprising West Virginia, but which at that time was part of Virginia, increased nearly seven times, the highest percentage of decennial increase falling below 25 per cent but once during this period. The population of West Virginia in 1910 was almost twenty-two times the population of the same area in 1790.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that during the 40 years covered by this table the rate of increase for the state was higher than the rate of increase for the United States for every decade except that from 1880 to 1890. The difference between the two rates, however, was not large at any time, being greatest in the decade 1870–1880, when the rate for the state was nearly one-third higher than the rate for the country as a whole. During the 40 years in which the population of the state increased almost three times, the population of the United States increased more than two and one-third times.

Principal cities.—West Virginia has 31 cities. Wheeling, the largest, has a population of 41,641, and Huntington, the second city, a population of 31,161. Charleston, Parkersburg, Bluefield, and Martinsburg, with 22,996, 17,842, 11,188, and 10,698 inhabitants, respectively, are the only other cities in the state having over 10,000 inhabitants. There are also 6 cities having from 5,000 to 10,000, 9 from 2,500 to 5,000, and 10 less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 31 cities is 232,618, or 19 per cent of the total population of the state.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table on page 1013 shows the population of the 10 largest cities in 1910, at each census since their incorporation either as cities, towns, or villages, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, Morgantown shows the highest percentage of increase during the last decade, namely, 382.8 per cent, and Wheeling the lowest, 7.1 per cent. The high rate shown for Morgantown is due in large part to the annexation of three towns during the decade.

Bluefield, Charleston, Clarksburg, Huntington, and Morgantown each show a percentage of increase during the last decade of over 100 per cent. Six of the 10 cities included in the following table show higher percentages of increase during the last decade than during the preceding decade, 1890–1900.

The increase in the population of Wheeling was less during the last decade than during any preceding decade since its incorporation as a city, the rate of increase, 7.1 per cent, being only a little more than half the rate for either of the two preceding decades. The largest increase, both absolute and relative, in the city's population, was during the decade 1870–1880, namely, 11,457, or 59.4 per cent. The percentages of increase for the three decades from 1840 to 1870 ranged from 23.2 to 45 per cent.

Counties.—West Virginia has 55 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 7,838 in Grant County to 81,457 in Kanawha County.

There have been no changes in the territorial boundaries of the counties since 1900.

Forty-four counties have increased in population during the last decade, the rates of increase ranging from 2 per cent in Pendleton and Wayne Counties to 155.3 per cent in McDowell County, and the absolute increases from 182 in Pendleton County to 29,109 in McDowell County. Nineteen counties show a larger rate of increase than is shown for the state as a whole, which, as before stated, was 27.4 per cent. Eleven counties have decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from three-tenths of 1 per cent in Jefferson County to 13.6 per cent in Pleasants County, and the absolute decreases from 46 in Jefferson County to 2,041 in Tyler County. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the 44 counties that show an increase is 272,681; the aggregate decrease of population in the 11 counties that show a decrease is 10,362. The difference, 262,319, is the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 1016 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of West Virginia during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 24,022 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 50.8; in 1900 and 1890 it was 39.9 and 31.8, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9. In density of population West Virginia ranks fifteenth among the states.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 1017, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Randolph County, with 1,036 square miles, has the largest area, and Hancock County, with 83 square miles, has the smallest area. Ohio County, containing Wheeling city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 538.1 persons per square mile, while Pendleton County, with 13.4 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In West Virginia the counties are divided into 350 magisterial districts. There are also 209 secondary divisions, comprising 31 cities, 166 towns, and 12 villages. These secondary divisions usually form parts of their respective districts, but 1 city comprises the whole of five magisterial districts and parts of two others, 1 city comprises the whole of one magisterial district and parts of two others, and 3 cities are coextensive with the magisterial districts in which they are located.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of West Virginia at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities, towns, and villages grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, cities and incorporated towns of 2,500 or more inhabitants—contained 228,242 inhabitants, or 18.7 per cent of the total population, while 992,877 inhabitants, or 81.3 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities and incorporated towns then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 125,465 inhabitants, or 13.1 per cent of the total population, while 833,335 inhabitants, or 86.9 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a considerable increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

In 1890 and 1900 Wheeling, the only city in the state then having over 25,000 inhabitants, contained 4.5 and 4.1 per cent, respectively, of the total population of the state. By 1910 Huntington had passed the 25,000 population mark, making two cities in the state having more than 25,000 inhabitants each, their combined population comprising 6 per cent of the total population of the state.

The proportion of the population of the state in the combined groups of smaller urban places, those having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, increased from 6.1 per cent in 1890 to 9 per cent in 1900 and to 12.7 per cent in 1910.

The urban population of the state is contained in 25 places of 2,500 inhabitants or more each, comprising 21 cities and 4 towns. The 184 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each, comprising 10 cities, 162 towns, and 12 villages, have an aggregate population of 132,398, or 10.8 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprise 46 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 71,628; 55 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 38,535; and 83 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 22,235. The population living in unincorporated territory represents 70.5 per cent of the total population of the state.

The above table shows further that in all incorporated places, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 360,640, or 29.5 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 205,701, or 21.5 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that 19 counties have a larger proportion and 3 counties a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900, while 33 counties were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis, and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table on the next page, the total population in 1910 of those cities and towns which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 228,242; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 137,464. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those cities and towns which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 125,465 (see table above), by 11,999. The difference is the net result of the passage since 1900 of certain communities from the rural to the urban class and vice versa, and of annexations of territory during the same period.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of cities and towns having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the table in the next column, shows an increase of 66 per cent. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased 20.9 per cent. Urban population thus increased a little more than two and one-third times as rapidly as that of the state as a whole, and more than three times as rapidly as rural population. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2 there are 15 counties in West Virginia in which rural population decreased, but only 1 in which there was a decrease of urban population.

In the table following the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the combined population of the cities having, in 1910, 25,000 inhabitants or more, the combined population of cities and towns having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, and the population of the remainder of the state.

From this table it appears that the combined population of the group of urban places having 25,000 inhabitants or more increased during the last decade nearly one and one-half times as rapidly, and the population of the group of places having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants a little more than three times as rapidly, as the population of the state as a whole, while the rate of increase in rural territory was considerably lower than the rate for the state as a whole.

It also appears from this table that of the increase in the total population of the state during the decade, namely, 262,319, nearly two-thirds was in rural territory.

CHAPTER 2. —COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of West Virginia by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of four general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for the two cities of more than 25,000 inhabitants; Table III for cities of 10,000 to 25,000; and Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 13) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of West Virginia, 1,156,817, or 94.7 per cent, are whites, and 64,173, or 5.3 per cent, negroes. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 95.5 and 4.5. In 42 of the 55 counties less than 5 per cent of the population are negroes; in only 4 counties does the proportion of negroes exceed 12.5 per cent, the maximum percentage, 30.6, being that for McDowell County. (See map on page 1031.)

Native whites of native parentage constitute 85.3 per cent of the total population of the state, and 90.1 per cent of the white population. Native whites of foreign or mixed parentage and foreign-born whites each constitute only 4.7 per cent of the total population.

Of the urban population, 74.8 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 87.8 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 11.6 and 3.1 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 6.9 in the urban population and 4.2 in the rural; the percentage of negroes is 6.7 in the urban and 4.9 in the rural.

Sex (Table 2).—In the total population of the state there are 644,044 males and 577,075 females, or 111.6 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 108.6 to 100. Among the whites there are 110.5 males to 100 females; among the negroes, 132.8. Among native whites the ratio is 106.1 to 100, as compared with 261.8 to 100 for the foreign-born whites. In the urban population there are 104.2 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 113.4.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the native population—that is, population born in the United States—80 per cent were born in West Virginia and 20 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 17.8 per cent were born outside the state; and of the native negro, 57.6 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Table 5).—Of the foreign-born white population of West Virginia, persons born in Italy represent 30.3 per cent; Austria, 14.6; Germany, 11.1; Hungary, 10.4; Russia, 9; England, 6.1; Ireland, 4; Scotland, 1.9; all other countries, 12.5. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 21.7 per cent; Italy, 18.5; Ireland, 11.5; Austria, 9.5; England, 9; Hungary, 6.6; Russia, 6.4; Scotland, 2.9.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 338,349, representing 27.7 per cent of the population. Of such males, 93.2 per cent are whites and 6.7 per cent negroes. Native whites represent 83 per cent of the total number and foreign-born whites 10.3 per cent. Of the 34,687 foreign-born white males of voting age, 7,263, or 20.9 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 275,048.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 12).—Of the total population, 13.8 per cent are under 5 years of age, 22.8 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 20.2 per cent from 15 to 24, 27.4 per cent from 25 to 44, and 15.5 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 6.9 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while 69.9 per cent are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of native parentage, 40.9 per cent are 25 and over, and of the negroes, 46.5 per cent. The negro population comprises a somewhat smaller proportion of children under 5 than the native white of native parentage. The proportion under 5 is greatest among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 33.2 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural population, 26.1 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 396,818, of whom 259,971, or 65.5 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 3,544 children under 6 and 3,896 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 64.9; for girls, 66.2. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 82.5. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 83; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 82.9; among foreign-born whites, 66.1; and among negroes, 76.2. (See Table I.) The percentage attending school for children of that age was 85.1 in the urban population, and 82.1 in the rural.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 74,866 illiterates in the state, representing 8.3 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 11.4 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 6.4 among native whites, 23.9 among foreign-born whites, and 20.3 among negroes. Among native whites of native parentage it is 6.7, and among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 2.

Illiterates are relatively fewer in urban than in rural communities, the percentage being 4 in the urban population and 9.4 in the rural. For each class of the population separately, also, the rural percentage is higher than the urban—decidedly higher for the foreign-born whites and for the negroes.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is 4.1. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 13).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 38.9 per cent of the males are single and 28 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 56.7 for males and 63.3 for females, and the percentage widowed 3.7 and 7.9, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.3 and 0.5, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due partly to the excess of males in the total population, but mainly to the fact that women marry younger. Thus, 15.5 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 1.3 per cent of the males; and 57.9 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 25.8 per cent of the males. In the next age group, 25 to 34 years, the difference is less marked, the percentages being 80.4 and 66.7, respectively, and it is inconsiderable in the age group 35 to 44. Among those 45 and over the percentage married is higher among the males. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages married among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Native whites of native parentage, 58 for males, 63.1 for females; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 56.6 both for males and for females; foreign-born whites, 53.6 and 76.6; negroes, 45.7 and 62.2.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, both for males and for females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in West Virginia is 239,128, and the total number of families 248,480, indicating that in comparatively few cases does more than one family occupy a dwelling. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 5.1, and the average number per family, 4.9.

WISCONSIN.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Wisconsin, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 1054) shows the population of Wisconsin, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three Federal censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. The arrangement of counties and of the primary divisions in each county is alphabetical. The figures for the two secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. In the majority of cases this is due to the territorial changes that have been made in the minor civil divisions within certain counties since 1890, although in the case of some counties it is explained by the formation of new counties from their territory or by the transfer of part of their territory to other counties since 1890. In some instances, moreover, divisions which were returned independently at one census were at another census returned as secondary divisions or in combination with other divisions. One county was not returned by towns in 1890.

Table 2 (p. 1069) shows the cities and incorporated villages in Wisconsin, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

HISTORICAL NOTE.—Wisconsin was named from its principal river. The significance of the word, which is of Indian origin, is not positively known, but among the meanings given are "wild, rushing river," "gathering of the waters," and "great stone or rocks."

The first explorers of the region now constituting Wisconsin were the French. In 1634 Jean Nicolet, sent out by the governor of New France to promote trade with the Indians, landed where the city of Green Bay now stands, and ascended the Fox River to a point about 20 miles west of Lake Winnebago. Twenty years later two fur traders, Radisson and Groselliers, ascended the Fox and may have descended the Wisconsin to its junction with the Mississippi. In 1669 a mission was established on the Fox River a few miles above its mouth, and about this mission grew up the town of Depere, the first permanent settlement within the present limits of Wisconsin.

In 1763, at the close of the French and Indian War, the French possessions east of the Mississippi were ceded to England. At the close of the Revolution the territory northwest of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi was ceded by Great Britain to the United States. The former country, however, did not at once relinquish its hold,

The population of Wisconsin, by counties, at each of the last five Federal censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two Federal censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the terri-and, although its outposts in that region were evacuated in the summer of 1796, it was not until the close of the war of 1812 that it ceased to exercise some degree of control in the territory between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi.

In 1787 the region bounded by Pennsylvania, the Ohio River, the Mississippi River, and the Great Lakes was organized as the Northwest Territory, the claims of Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Virginia, based on their early charters, having been ceded to the United States between 1781 and 1786. In 1800 the present area of Wisconsin was included in the newly organized territory of Indiana; in 1809 it was made a part of Illinois territory; and in 1818, when Illinois became a state, it was added to Michigan territory.

Wisconsin was organized as a separate territory in 1836. At this time it included, in addition to the area of the present state, the region now constituting Minnesota, Iowa, and those portions of North and South Dakota lying east of the Missouri and White Earth Rivers. In 1838 that part of Wisconsin territory situated west of the Mississippi River and a line drawn north from its source to the Canadian boundary was organized as the territory of Iowa. In May, 1848, Wisconsin, with boundaries as at present, became a state of the Union.

tory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two Federal censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of Wisconsin is 2,333,860. Compared with a population of 2,069,042 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 264,818, or 12.8 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent.

The following table shows the population of Wisconsin at each Federal census from 1840 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

Wisconsin was organized as a territory in 1836 and appears in the Federal census reports for the first time in 1840. During the 20 years from 1840 to 1860 the population increased very rapidly, multiplying almost ten times during the first 10 years of this period and more than doubling during the second 10 years. During the 50 years since 1860 the population of the state has shown a substantial increase at each census, though at a much slower rate than during the preceding 20-year period, and, with one exception, at a steadily decreasing rate. The percentage of increase fell below 20 only during the last decade.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that there have been only two decades in which the rate of increase for the state has been below that for the country as a whole, namely, 1900-1910 and 1870-1880. Since 1860, however, the differences between the two rates have not been exceptionally large, the greatest difference being that for the decade 1860-1870 and the smallest difference that for the decade 1890-1900. During this 50-year period the population of the United States increased a little less than three times, while that of the state increased a little more than three times. During the preceding 20 years, 1840-1860, the state increased in population far more rapidly than the United States, the population of the state increasing more than twenty-five times, while that of the country as a whole nearly doubled.

Principal cities.—Wisconsin has 124 cities. Milwaukee, the largest, has a population of 373,857, and Superior, the second city, a population of 40,384. Besides Superior there are 6 cities having from 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants. There are also 10 cities having from 10,000 to 25,000, 18 having from 5,000 to 10,000, 37 having from 2,500 to 5,000, and 51 having less than 2,500 inhabitants. The aggregate population of the 124 cities is 1,083,708, or 46.4 per cent of the total population of the state.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table on page 1049 shows the population of the 8 cities having in 1910 over 25,000 inhabitants, as reported at each Federal census since their incorporation either as cities or villages, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, Green Bay shows the highest percentage of increase during the last decade, namely, 35.1 per cent, and La Crosse the lowest, 5.3 per cent. The rates of increase for all of the cities have been lower during the last decade than during the preceding decade.

The relative growth of the population of Milwaukee during the last decade, 31 per cent, has been slower than during any preceding decade. The absolute increase, however, was greater than during any previous decade, with one exception. The percentages of increase for the preceding decades ranged from 39.5 per cent for the decade 1890-1900 to 1,071.8 per cent for the decade 1840-1850.

Counties.—Wisconsin has 71 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 3,381 in Florence County to 433,187 in Milwaukee County.

The following territorial changes have been made in the counties of Wisconsin since 1900: The formation of Gates County in 1901 from Big Bend, Dewey, Flambeau, Lawrence, and Strickland towns in Chippewa County, the name of this new county being changed to Rusk in 1905; the addition of part of Vilas County to Oneida County in 1901; and the addition of part of Forest County to Vilas County in 1905.

Owing to the organization since 1900 of one new county from part of another county, as shown above, the comparison of increase or decrease in population is made for only 69 counties and one combination of counties, the counties combined being Chippewa and Rusk. In order to determine the actual rate of increase for these latter counties, it is necessary to add the population of the new county to that of the old county from which it was formed. Fifty counties and the one combination of counties increased in population during the last decade. The rates of increase for the 50 counties that show increases range from less than one-tenth of 1 per cent in Columbia County to 385.8 per cent in Forest County, and the absolute increases of the same group of counties range from 8 in Columbia County to 103,170 in Milwaukee County. The population of the one combination of counties increased 10,226, or 31 per cent. Nineteen counties decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from four-tenths of 1 per cent in Sauk County to 7.8 per cent in Pierce County, and the absolute decreases from 137 in Sauk County to 1,864 in Pierce County. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the one combination of counties and in the 50 counties that show increases is 277,080; the aggregate decrease in the 19 counties that show decreases is 12,262. The difference, 264,818, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on page 1052 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Wisconsin during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 55,256 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 42.2; in 1900 and 1890 it was 37.4 and 30.6, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 1053, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Marathon County, with 1,554 square miles, has the largest area, and Ozaukee County, with 233 square miles, has the smallest area. Milwaukee County, containing Milwaukee city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 1,843.3 persons per square mile, while Sawyer County, with 4.7 persons per square mile, has the lowest density.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Wisconsin the counties are divided into 1,558 primary divisions, comprising 1,183 towns, 124 cities, and 251 villages. There are also two secondary divisions in the state, comprising that number of villages. Besides these minor civil divisions there are six Indian reservations in the state.

These reservations, though independent of any county organization, are returned under the counties in which they are wholly or partly located.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Wisconsin at the Federal censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities and incorporated villages grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the cities of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 1,004,320 inhabitants, or 43 per cent of the total population, while 1,329,540 inhabitants, or 57 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 790,213 inhabitants, or 38.2 per cent of the total population, while 1,278,829 inhabitants, or 61.8 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a considerable increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

The proportion of the total population of the state residing in Milwaukee, the one city in the state having over 100,000 inhabitants, increased from 12.1 per cent in 1890 to 13.8 per cent in 1900 and 16 per cent in 1910. In 1890 there was only one city in the state having from 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants, this city comprising only 1.5 per cent of the population of the state, while in 1910 there were seven cities within these population limits, these cities together comprising 9.4 per cent of the total population of the state. The proportion of the total population in the group made up of the cities having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants decreased from 19.6 per cent in 1890 to 18.7 per cent in 1900, and 17.6 per cent in 1910.

The urban population of the state is contained in 73 cities, having a combined population of 1,004,320. The rural population is in 304 cities and villages of less than 2,500 inhabitants each and in the unincorporated territory. The 304 cities and villages of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 238,251, or 10.2 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprise 69 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 107,699; 133 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 94,016; and 102 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 36,536. The population living in unincorporated territory represents 46.8 per cent of the total population of the state.

The above table further shows that in all incorporated places, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 1,242,571, or 53.2 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 969,552, or 46.9 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that 33 counties and the one combination of counties had a larger proportion and 8 counties a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900, while for 1 county the proportion was the same. Four counties wholly rural in 1900 were partly urban in 1910 and 23 counties were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table in the next column, the total population in 1910 of those cities which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 1,004,320; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 811,096. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those cities which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 790,213 (see table on page 1050), by 20,883. The difference is the result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of the cities having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the table in the next column, shows an increase of 23.8 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as thus defined. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased 5.7 per cent. Urban population thus increased nearly twice as rapidly as that of the state as a whole and a little more than four times as rapidly as that of rural territory. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent.

As shown by Table I of Chapter 2 there are 29 counties in which the population living in rural territory decreased and 8 counties in which there was a decrease in the urban population, St. Croix and Iowa being the only counties that decreased in population in both urban and rural districts.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the population of the city of Milwaukee, the combined population of the other cities having, in 1910, 25,000 inhabitants or more, the combined population of cities having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, and the population of the remainder of the state.

From this table it appears that the population of the city of Milwaukee increased during the last decade nearly two and one-half times as rapidly as the population of the state as a whole. The population of the group of other cities having 25,000 inhabitants or more increased a little more than one and three-fourths times as rapidly, and the population of the group of cities having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants increased a little less than one and one-half times as rapidly as the population of the state, while the rate of increase for rural territory was less than one-half the rate for the state as a whole.

It also appears from this table that of the total increase in the population of the state during the decade, namely, 264,818, more than one-third was contributed by the city of Milwaukee.

In case of decrease the per cent is inserted under the county name.

CHAPTER 2.—COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Wisconsin by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of more than 25,000 inhabitants; Table III for cities of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for cities of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of Milwaukee.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 16) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Wisconsin, 763,225, or 32.7 per cent, are native whites of native parentage; 1,044,761, or 44.7 per cent, are native whites of foreign or mixed parentage; and 512,569, or 22 per cent, are foreign-born whites. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 28.3, 46.2, and 24.9, respectively, the proportion of native whites of native parentage having increased somewhat during the decade. In only 2 of the 71 counties is the percentage of foreign-born whites less than 10, in 7 it is between 10 and 15, in 48 between 15 and 25, in 12 between 25 and 35, and in 2 it exceeds 35. The percentage of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage ranges generally higher, exceeding 35 in 63 counties. (See maps on page 1081).

Of the urban population, 28.5 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 35.9 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage are 45.7 and 44.1 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 25.5 in the urban population and 19.3 in the rural. The Indians appear almost exclusively in the rural population, of which they constitute 0.7 per cent.

Sex (Tables 2 and 14).—In the total population of the state there are 1,208,578 males and 1,125,282 females, or 107.4 males to 100 females. In 1900 the ratio was 106.6 to 100. Among the native whites the ratio is 101.6; among the foreign-born whites, 130.8. In the urban population there are 101.7 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 111.9.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the total native population—that is, population born in the United States—85.6 per cent were born in Wisconsin and 14.4 per cent outside the state, the proportions being the same for the native white population. Of the native negroes, 58.7 per cent were born outside the state; of the native Indians, 6.1 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Tables 5 and 12).—Of the foreign-born white population of Wisconsin, persons born in Germany represent 45.5 per cent; Norway, 11.1; Austria, 7.5; Russia, 5.8; Sweden, 5; Canada, 4.9; Denmark, 3.2; Ireland, 2.7; England, 2.7; all other countries, 11.6. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Germany contributed 51 per cent; Norway, 10.1; Austria, 5.2; Canada, 5; Ireland, 4.8; Sweden, 3.6; England, 3.4; Russia, 2.9; Denmark, 2.5.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 683,743, representing 29.3 per cent of the population. Of such males, 21.7 per cent are native whites of native parentage, 38.3 per cent native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 39.4 per cent foreign-born whites, and 0.6 per cent are in other classes. Of the 269,237 foreign-born white males of voting age, 142,848, or 53.1 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 497,922.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 11 per cent are under 5 years of age, 21.1 per cent from 5 to 14 years, inclusive, 19.9 per cent from 15 to 24, 27.3 per cent from 25 to 44, and 20.5 per cent 45 years of age and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 3.6 per cent of this class being under 15 years of age, while 87.1 per cent are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of native parentage, 30.4 per cent are 25 years of age and over; of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 41.3 per cent; of Indians, 42 per cent; and of negroes, 61.3 per cent.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 30.3 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural, 25 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 732,544, of whom 484,629, or 66.2 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 22,287 children under 6 and 7,985 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 66; for girls, 66.3. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 89.9. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 90.8; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 89.7; among foreign-born whites, 84.1; and among negroes, 88.9. (See Table I.) There is little difference between urban and rural communities as regards the percentage of school attendance for the ages from 6 to 14, but for persons from 15 to 20, the percentages were 27.3 in the urban population and 31.3 in the rural.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 57,769 illiterates in the state, representing 3.2 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 4.7 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 33.7 among Indians, 8.7 among foreign-born whites, 4.5 among negroes, and 0.9 among native whites.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiteracy is slightly higher in rural than in urban communities, 3.3 as compared with 3. The rural percentage exceeds the urban for each class separately, except the foreign-born whites, most of whom arrive in this country when past the school age. Among them the percentage is the same in the urban as in the rural population.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is only 0.7. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 15).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 41.4 per cent of the males are single and 32.6 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 53.6 for males and 57.7 for females, and the percentage widowed 4.2 and 9, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.5 and 0.6, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is smaller for women than for men is due largely to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 4.6 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 0.3 per cent of the males, and 39.1 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 14.4 per cent of the males. In the next two age groups, 25 to 34 and 35 to 44 years, the difference is less marked, while among those 45 and over, the percentage married is higher among the males. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 68.2 for males and 71.8 for females; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 46.8 and 54, respectively; native whites of native parentage, 45.1 and 48.8; Indians, 55.2 and 63.1; negroes, 45.6 and 50.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married for males is higher in the urban population; for females, it is higher in the rural.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Wisconsin is 462,355, and the total number of families 499,629, there being 108.1 families to each 100 dwellings. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 5, and the average number per family, 4.7.

WASHBURN.—Organized from part of Burnett in 1883.

NOTE 1.—Chippewa and Rusk Counties combined.—Total population: 1910, 43,263; 1900, 33,037; increase, 1900–1910, 10,226; per cent of increase, 31. Urban population—1910, 11,568; same places in 1900, 10,481; per cent of increase, 10.4. Rural population—1910, 31,695; same territory in 1900, 22,556; per cent of increase, 40.5. Urban population—1900, 8,094; rural population—1900, 24,943. Per cent in places of 2,500 or more in 1910, 26.7. Per cent in places of 2,500 or more in 1900, 24.5.

NOTE 2.—In computing this increase the population of Indian reservations in 1900 has been deducted from the total population of the county in order to make that total comparable with the total for 1890, which does not include the population of Indian reservations. The population thus deducted in the several counties was as follows: Ashland, 627; Bayfield, 398; Brown, 695; Oconto, 232; Outagamie, 1,009; Sawyer, 873; Shawano, 1,631; and Vilas, 661.

KENOSHA.—Parts of Pleasant Prairie town annexed in 1902, 1906, and 1908, and parts of Somers town annexed in 1901, 1902, 1906, and 1908.

MADISON.—Part of Madison town annexed in 1903.

MARSHFIELD.—Part taken to form Cameron town in 1903.

MILWAUKEE.—Part of Milwaukee town annexed between 1890 and 1900. Parts of Greenfield town annexed in 1903 and 1910, part of Lak- town annexed in 1908, part of Milwaukee town annexed in 1910, and parts of Wauwatosa town annexed in 1900, 1902, 1906, 1909, and 1910.

OSHKOSH.—Part of Oshkosh town annexed in 1906.

WASHBURN.—Incorporated from part of Washburn town in 1904.

WEST ALLIS.—Incorporated from parts of Greenfield and Wauwatosa towns in 1906.

WYOMING.

CHAPTER 1.—NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Wyoming, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 1109) shows the population of Wyoming in 1910, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, and, so far as possible, in comparison with similar figures for 1900 and 1890. The arrangement of counties is alphabetical, while the primary divisions in each county are given in numerical order, with the exception of the primary divisions of Converse County which are alphabetically arranged. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

The boundaries of minor civil divisions have been changed so extensively throughout the state during the last two decades that comparisons of population in 1910 by minor civil divisions with 1900 and 1890 are possible in comparatively few cases. It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is for the most part due to territorial changes that have been made in the minor civil divisions as previously mentioned. In the case of one county it is because the population was returned by districts in 1910 but was not so returned in 1900 and 1890.

HISTORICAL NOTE.—The name of this state is derived from an Indian word signifying "great plains."

The first white men to visit the region now constituting Wyoming were two Frenchmen, sons of Sieur de la Verendrye, a Canadian, who made explorations in 1743. The first permanent settlement was made in 1834, when Fort Williams, later called Fort Laramie, was established as a trading post.

That part of the present state lying east of the Rocky Mountains was originally included in the vast area known as Louisiana, which was ceded by France to Spain in 1762, retroceded to France in 1800, and purchased by the United States in 1803. That part lying south of the forty-second parallel and west of a line drawn due north from the source of the Arkansas River originally belonged to Spain but became a part of Mexico in 1821, when that country achieved its independence. The eastern part of this area, about a degree of longitude in width, formed a part of Texas from 1836, when that state became independent of Mexico, to 1850, five years after it was annexed to the United States; the western part of the area was ceded to the United States by Mexico in 1848, at the close of the Mexican War. The rest of the area of the present state, comprising the tract north of the forty-second parallel and west of the Rocky Mountains, was originally included in the Oregon country, which was occupied jointly by the United States and Great Britain until 1846, when the latter nation relinquished its claim.

That part of Wyoming which was included in the Louisiana Purchase belonged

Table 2 (p. 1111) shows the cities and incorporated towns in Wyoming, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of Wyoming, by counties, at each of the last five Federal censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive; the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two Federal censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, election districts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or successively to the district of Louisiana (1804-5), the territory of Louisiana (1805-1812), the territory of Missouri (1812-1834), and the "Indian country" (1834-1854). The area west of the Rocky Mountains and south of the forty-second parallel was made a part of the territory of Utah at its organization in 1850, and in the same year the small amount of former Mexico and Texas territory which lay east of the Rocky Mountains was added to the Indian country. In 1854 the area east of the Rocky Mountains was taken with other land to form the territory of Nebraska, and in 1861 the region east of the Rocky Mountains and north of the forty-third parallel was made a part of the territory of Dakota, while the region south of this parallel, extending west from the mountains to the one hundred and tenth meridian, was added to Nebraska. The region north of the forty-second parallel and west of the Rocky Mountains belonged to Oregon territory from 1848 to 1859 and to Washington territory from 1859 to 1863, with the exception of a small area which was transferred from Washington to Nebraska territory in 1861.

In 1863 all the present area of Wyoming except a section in the southwest corner, 1° of latitude in length and 1° of longitude in width, was included with the territory then organized as Idaho, and in 1864 all the present area except a strip 1° of longitude in width, extending from the forty-second parallel northward to the Rocky Mountains, was transferred from Idaho to Dakota.

In 1868 Wyoming, with boundaries as at present, was organized as a territory, and in 1890 became a state of the Union.

with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two Federal censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of the state of Wyoming is 145,965. Compared with a population of 92,531 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 53,434, or 57.7 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The percentage of increase for the population of the state during the preceding decade, 1890–1900, was 47.9. The following table shows the population of Wyoming as enumerated at each Federal census from 1870 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and the per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase of the population of the United States as a whole.

Wyoming was organized as a territory in 1868 and appears in the Federal census reports for the first time in 1870. During the 20 years from 1870 to 1890 the growth of Wyoming was very rapid, the population in 1890 being nearly seven times as great as in 1870. Since 1890 the growth of the state has been slower, the population in 1910 being a little less than two and one-half times as great as in 1890. The absolute increase during the last decade was nearly six times the total population of the territory in 1870.

It may also be noted from this table that the population of Wyoming has increased more rapidly than that of the United States during every decade since 1870, when the population of the territory was first returned. The population of the state in 1910 was a little more than sixteen times as large as in 1870, while the population of the United States in 1910 was less than three times that in 1870.

Cities.—Wyoming has five cities, of which the largest, Cheyenne, has a population of 11,320, and Rawlins, the smallest city, a population of 4,256. The aggregate population of the five cities is 37,999, or 26 per cent of the total population of the state.

The following table shows the population of the five cities in the state, as reported at each Federal census since their incorporation either as cities or towns, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in the foregoing table, Sheridan shows the highest percentage of increase during the last decade, namely, 439.3 per cent, and Laramie the lowest, four-tenths of 1 per cent, while Cheyenne shows a decrease of 19.6 per cent. Two cities show a higher rate of increase during the last decade, 1900–1910, than during the preceding decade, 1890–1900, and in the case of one of these, namely, Rawlins, the difference was considerable.

Counties.—Wyoming has 14 counties. The population of these counties ranges from 3,453 in Johnson County to 26,127 in Laramie County. Yellowstone National Park, which is shown separately in Table 1, is independent of any county and has a population of 519.

The following territorial change has been made since 1900: Part of Bighorn County was taken in 1909 to form Park County.

Owing to the organization since 1900 of one new county from part of another county as shown above, the comparison of increase or decrease in population is made for only 12 counties and one combination of counties and for Yellowstone National Park. The combined counties are Park and Bighorn. In order to determine the actual rate of increase for these counties, it is necessary to add the population of the new county to that of the old county from which it was formed. Eleven counties, the one combination of counties, and Yellowstone National Park have increased in population during the last decade. The rates of increase for the 11 counties range from 17.7 per cent in Carbon County to 218.7 per cent in Sheridan County, and the absolute increases from 1,092 in Johnson County to 11,202 in Sheridan County. The combined counties of Bighorn and Park increased 9,467, or 218.7 per cent. The increase in Yellowstone National Park was 150, or 40.7 per cent. One county, Albany, decreased 1,510, or 11.5 per cent, during the last decade.

The maps on page 1107 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Wyoming and of Yellowstone National Park during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties and Yellowstone National Park the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in the shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 97,594 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 1.5; in 1900, 0.9, and in 1890, 0.6. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on page 1108, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

Fremont County, with 12,659 square miles, has the largest area, and Sheridan County, with 2,575 square miles, has the smallest area. Sheridan County, containing Sheridan city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 6.3 persons per square mile. Converse, Fremont, Johnson, Natrona, and Park Counties have each an average of less than 1 person per square mile. The remaining counties, with two exceptions, have an average of less than 2 persons per square mile.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Wyoming the counties are divided into 215 primary divisions, comprising 167 election districts and 48 election precincts. There are also 48 secondary divisions, comprising 5 cities and 43 towns. These secondary divisions usually form parts of their respective precincts or districts, but 2 cities and 11 towns are coextensive with the election precincts or districts in which they are located. Besides these minor civil divisions there is one Indian reservation, which, though independent of any county organization, is returned under the county in which it is located.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Wyoming at the Federal censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities and towns grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census.

As shown by the preceding table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the cities and incorporated towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 43,221 inhabitants, or 29.6 per cent of the total population, while 102,744 inhabitants, or 70.4 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities and incorporated towns then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 26,657 inhabitants, or 28.8 per cent of the total population, while 65,874 inhabitants, or 71.2 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been a slight increase in the proportion of urban population. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

The 41 towns of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 22,866, or 15.7 per cent of the total population of the state. These towns comprise 6 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 9,395; 10 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 7,077; and 25 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 6,394. The population living in unincorporated territory represents 54.7 per cent of the total population of the state.

The table on page 1105 shows further that in all cities and incorporated towns, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 66,087, or 45.3 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all cities and incorporated towns, as they existed in 1900, was 39,382, or 42.6 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that of the three counties of Wyoming which had urban population in 1900, one had a larger proportion and two a smaller proportion in 1910 than in 1900. Four counties wholly rural in 1900 were partly urban in 1910, while five counties and the one combination of counties were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of these same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table below, the total population in 1910 of those cities and towns which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 43,221; in 1900 the total population of these same places was 33,526. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those cities and towns which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 26,657 (see table on p. 1105), by 6,869. The difference is the result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class.

| Remainder of the state.....                    | 102,744        | 59,005        | 43,739                 | 74.1        |

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of the cities and towns having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the above table, shows an increase of 28.9 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as previously defined. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased 74.1 per cent. Rural population thus increased about two and one-half times as rapidly as urban population. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.8 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent.
